New Director for Hall's Group Jim Quinn joins the Board

The Hall's Group is pleased to announce the appointment of Jim Quinn to the Board as an independent director with effect from July 2014. He brings a wealth of experience to the Group with a significant career in the transport, distribution and technology sectors, which I am sure will greatly benefit us.

Mr Quinn was the inaugural CEO of KiwiRail from 2009 to 2014 and successfully guided the successful re-integration of that company's businesses following its return to national ownership. Prior to this, Jim was for five years the Chief Executive of Express Couriers, forming a joint venture between NZ Post and DHL, having also been General Manager of the processing and sales divisions of NZ Post. He is a director of the Lyttelton Port Company, Payments New Zealand and Tubman Heating.

The Board is a team like many of those within the Group, and changes from time to time. Jim Quinn replaces Mark Bellas on the Board.

Mark, with a background in investment management and banking, served on the Board for nearly ten years through a number of acquisitions and major developments. His significant contribution to this journey is gratefully acknowledged, and we wish him all the best in the future.

FROM THE CEO'S DESK

ALAN PEARSON
CHIEF EXECUTIVE

"NZ is going well and is described as the pin up for all other countries to mimic in terms of economic performance during the past several years of harsh worldwide recession."

It has been a while since our last edition and for that we have had to make this issue a bumper issue.

Over the past few months we have been very busy at Hall's dealing with a range of challenges and opportunities such as the issues surrounding Inter island ferry service disruption, the Easter & ANZAC day stampede, through to the successful go live of Restaurant Brands and Wendy's within Hall's Logistics. For all of these events I wish to thank the many people involved for what I consider a very successful opening to 2014.

It would be fair to say that despite the challenge associated with the significant change the Restaurant Brands and Wendy's the transition was successful and for that I need to thank a wide range of people from Restaurant Brands, Wendy's, Hall's and key suppliers.

NZ is going well and is described as the pin up for all other countries to mimic in terms of economic performance during the past several years of harsh worldwide recession. There is little doubt that confidence has returned to our land and you see this through our daily life. This is not to say we don't have issues because simply put we do. My heart goes out for those in Christchurch who are still enduring issues with Earthquake repairs and more recently flooding due to changed landscapes and water drainage. It cannot be easy dealing with issues some years after dealing with the stress of the earthquakes. At Hall's we have many employees living in Christchurch as well as many customers and we are very mindful of their circumstance and have nothing but empathy for their challenge.

During April we were exposed to what I described as the perfect storm where a dozen different adverse variables colluded into making the Easter & Anzac day week a major challenge for Hall's service. Storms, ferry disruptions, new trailer delays, people shortage, Christchurch flooding, road closures, accidents, grid lock at customer storage sites, competitors withdrawal of services and other events (to name just a few) caused this period to be challenging. In the end we got through, however not to our normal standards in terms of delivery on time, in specification and in full (DIFOTIS) despite the heroic efforts of many of our staff for which I thank. I also wish to thank our customers for their patience and understanding.

It is fair to say that many of the challenges faced have been addressed or in the process of being addressed such as new trailers. One issue that continues to be a major obstacle however and not only for Hall's but also every other business in Christchurch is the availability of people. Drivers, Storeman and even management are in short supply within Christchurch, which has now leapfrogged Auckland in terms of severity of this issue. Given this it was refreshing to see government announce a $3000 incentive to entice beneficiaries to move to Christchurch and pick up jobs. This can only be a step in the right direction.

At the moment we at Hall's have the ability to resource roles in Christchurch by transferring very capable people from other regions to assist. Despite the mix of alternate regional rugby support this has introduced; especially between the people from Waikato into Crusader country, this has been a very positive move and I thank all people involved.

The balance of the year is exciting for Hall's as we enter a period where new trailers arrive and we build new muscle and capability for the future ahead. Our three divisions are well poised to grow and prosper and have a range of interesting and exciting improvements before them. At Hall's Refrigerated and Hall's Intermodal the new HMPV trailers will improve productivity. At Hall's Logistics the building of a 7,000 pallet Coldstore in Auckland will add much needed frozen capacity. Therefore 2015 will not be a year of standing still.

Alan Pearson, Chief Executive Officer

Restaurant Brands

On the 1st April Hall's Logistics commenced to service the full nation wide logistics supply chain for Restaurant Brands KFC, Pizza Hut and Starbuck's restaurants, bringing to a completion a project spread over several months. The Silver Bullet interviewed Hall's Group Managing Director Mr Alan Pearson about this project and he stated the following. "The project represented a major development for Hall's as it solidified and enhanced our recognised and existing transport capability within the quick service restaurant industry through the inclusion of high velocity product storage, picking and staging services. Restaurant Brands had been with the previous service provider for many years, however after an extensive tender process chose Hall's as the new service provider and it was this decision that enabled the development of Voice picking and wrist RF scanning product picking capability within the Hall's Logistics (previously known as Easy Logistics) business unit".

Asked whether there were any challenges, Pearson replied that "there were many challenges for both parties given that the changes required needed to be seamless to all Restaurant Brands stores, there was a requirement for additional Warehouse Management System features, complete realignment of the warehouse, new racking, investment in new equipment and advanced picking cart technology, we also required a period of transition collaboration with the existing service supplier and the employment of additional people; yes there were challenges. At all times however, Restaurant Brands and Hall's believed that although the project had these challenges it was strategically important for both companies. The ultimate test was not so much getting it right as this was always going to occur over time, but to make the transition absolutely seamless to all Restaurant Brands stores nationally". The Silver Bullet asked was this achieved? Mr Pearson stated "yes it was". "It was never going to be perfect from day 1, however the close working relationship between Hall's and Restaurant Brands coupled with sheer hard work ironed out all wrinkles and speed bumps fast and efficiently".

Today the business is humming along with daily supply chain activities condensed down into daily routines and work flows. Storemen are routinely picking product for staging for nightly delivery and dealing with new product deliveries and placing stock away while ensuring pick face bays are kept replenished. Truck drivers ensure they have the entire load before setting off on their nightly store deliveries. Hall's role is to be the efficient and silent service provider behind our customers need to have the right product, at the right temperature at the right volume into store every single day without fail. This objective is being realised every day across Restaurant Brands New Zealand.

A walk through by Restaurant Brands Executive Chairman Ted van Arkel, CEO Russell Creedy and GM Logistics Leonie Reyneke along with Hall's Logistics GM Operations Darryl Halloran and GM Marketing & Growth Jason Ogden - MD Alan Pearson (photographer) highlights the new warehouse full of RB product.

Ambient Shed Racking

In order to prepare for the introduction of Restaurant Brands product the existing Hall's Logistics ambient shed had to be cleared of an existing customers product, moved to a 3rd party warehouse service provider along with existing metropolitan trucks & drivers, racking demolished and new racking installed along with new sky lights, CCTV, polished floor and full steam clean.

Silver Bullet - TRIATHLON

Just when you think that the executive team at Hall's are simply there for their good looks and charm you discover a simple little snippet of a story that they tried to keep quiet. In a world wide exclusive it can be revealed that a team consisting of Andrew Williamson (CFO), Grant Madill (Executive Director) and wait for it Alan Pearson (Managing Director) competed in The Panasonic Triathlon held at Mission Bay in the open class, normal event with Andrew completing the run, Grant the bike and Alan the swim. The other shock was that their time was middle of the field therefore reflecting a new perspective of their capability as a team.

The Silver Bullet found it difficult to get an interview with any of the competitors other than a throw away line from Mr Pearson who stated they were cheated out of 1st place, so the SB had to turn to eyewitness accounts from spectators such as Mr Jason Ogden.

Jason Ogden stated

"Waking up on a sensational Sunday morning my partner (Victoria) and I decided to go to St Heliers to ensure that the brains trust of the company had made it through their challenge. On arrival there was no site of the brave athletes so a quick phone call found Alan strutting around after a lengthy recovery. Chest out and pride on the face he had powered his way through the water leaving many in his wake. Grant soon appeared and looked an absolute picture in the streamlined cycling outfit; a professional in the making. The lads were proud to have completed their section and were awaiting the anchor man (Andrew) to come striding home with vigour. Helen Pearson had camera in hand and cheering voice ready. Minutes passed and then striding around the corner leading to the finish line (looking fresh as a daisy) came Andrew rushing across the final post. The lads were chuffed at the achievement and were soon contemplating recovery with a large breakfast on the menu. This reporter was expecting a pile of withering bodies and lots of pain and anguish but surprisingly team were looking on fine form and contemplating a future challenge. Well done to a fantastic achievement."

Team Wenman in Cancer Society's Relay For Life

The annual Manawatu Relay For Life was held on the weekend of March the 8th and 9th in Palmerston North, and for the 13th year, Team Wenman participated in this event.

The event involves sponsored teams walking or running around a circuit at Massey University non-stop for 24 hours to raise funds for the Cancer Society.

As Team Wenman has immediate family members who have been affected by cancer, they see this event as a means to contributing to the fight against cancer in the hope that others may benefit from this.

Team Wenman raised $6400 and won the award for highest amount raised by family and friends.

At the end of the event, a total of $358,000 had been raised however this is expected to exceed $400,000 once final donations come in.

A big thank you to the Hall's Group from Team Wenman for their generosity in supporting this cause.

Transport Industry Forum

Hall's had the pleasure of hosting the bi-annual major Transport Industry Forum at the Takanini Head Office and Depot on Thursday 10th April 2014. Representatives from the Ministry of Transport Road Transport forum Council join with major transport industry operators from Ports, KiwiRail, Multi modal transport operators and other Road transporters in order to discuss a range of industry wide issues and future direction.

In the past the group has been used as a discussion group for ministry proposed changes and items of national significance strategic planning.

Outward Bound

On the 17th of February I was invited to attend an invitations course at Outward Bound. We were picked up from Picton in a cutter and spent the afternoon sailing around the Queen Charlotte Sounds. I know it sounds wonderful. Then they told us we had to jump in the water and swim to shore.... Welcome to Anakiwa....

Well that was the start. Everything from 3.5km runs, going in the ocean fully clothed and 7 meter high obstacle courses. (For anyone that knows me I don't do heights or exercise). I must say it was the most amazing experience. I would recommend it to anyone who has the chance to attend an outward bound course to go. You will learn so much about yourself and the limits you can push yourself to. You will make some amazing friends and the best thing is the people around you are going through the same experience.

The outward bound people are great. They walk the walk with you each step of the way. They run outward bound with a lot of traditions. This is great as it teaches us that there are still values around that need to be revisited during our lives.

Below is the group of people I spent 30 hours with. Yes there was no time we were not together....

Outward Bound 'MIND BODY AND SOUL'

Hi all. My name is Ethan Watkins and I was the very lucky recipient of the Hall's scholarship to attend the 21 day Outward Bound 'Mind Body and Soul' course 2014.

I applied for this scholarship because I thought it would be fun and interesting and I would get to do activities that I otherwise may never get the chance to do... but it turned out it was so much more than that even.

I don't mind admitting that when I found out I had 'won' this scholarship I felt anxious and even had moments of thinking I did not want to go. I mean, I had never been that far away from home before and certainly never for that long- let alone with strangers!

Yes, I was VERY nervous. But anyway - on the 4th January I set out to begin one of the biggest and best adventures of my life.

When we reached Anakiwa, one of the most beautiful places I have seen. I had butterflies in my tummy - but as we were being placed in our 'watch' (group) I met 2 boys from opposite ends of NZ that I thought were just like me, and I suddenly felt happy to be there.

The watch was a mix of girls and boys from all over NZ and over the next 21 days we tramped, sailed, kayaked and climbed rock walls. We learnt about others in our watch but learnt more about ourselves. There were moments that I hated being there but many more moments that I was grateful to be there.

There were times that we were pushed to our very limits and wanted to give up but the feeling of satisfaction when you reached your goal or destination was unbelievable and made the hard work so worth it.

It tested my fitness, my stamina, my patience, and my courage.

It taught me to be more understanding of other people, it taught me to face my fears, and it taught me to step outside of my comfort zone. It challenged me in a way I have never been challenged before.

It taught us to not judge others and look deeper to see that some things are not always as they seem.

I have made life-long friendships with others from 'all walks of life' who I 'normally' would not form friendships with.

I do not want to give too much away about the daily routine as it is best that people that attend have no preconceived ideas and no expectations of what this course is about.

What I most want to say though is that it was an amazing experience - I completely recommend to anybody and EVERYBODY and if they get the chance to attend this course seize it with both hands and make the very most of it.

There is so much to get out of it and I thank Hall's very much for giving me the opportunity to do something extraordinary..

I really have appreciated this and believe I have come away from it a better person. I don't think anybody would come out of this disappointed.

Again - Thank You to Hall's Refrigerated Transport and all those at Hall's who have made this possible for me... and for others in the future.

And to anybody thinking of applying to attend next year - GO FOR IT! You will not regret it. 'MIND BODY SOUL' ...Yes this course touches on every one of those.

Best quote from an attendee at Outward Bound that I heard... "Outward Bound does not teach you to be courageous - it shows you that you were courageous all along"

Congratulations

Hall's would like to Congratulate Glenn Hay and Caroline Hay for their wedding on the 29th March 2014.

Glenn has been with Hall's Refrigerated as a part time/ casual employee in Christchurch for 7-8 years.

The first photo is a compromise between the cake every big kid wants and a more traditional wedding cake.

The second is of the two trucks on the day.

The Western Star belongs to Dave Attewell and the DAF to Wayne Kenworthy.

A huge thanks to those two and the drivers who polished them.

New Kenworth K200

You often see him driving the lonely roads through the country keeping steadfast to the task at hand of moving our customers freight. He will appear out of no where on the railing of an interisland ferry or be seen in the docks of the Christchurch yard or helping out Southland over autumn, but once again Craig Madill (Executive Director) spent weeks driving a brand new Kenworth K200 8X4 truck and Trailer combination. There were many pictures taken with most created by a group of truck enthusiasts commonly named as "truck spotters". One of these keen enthusiasts asked Craig to perform a series of slow sweeps down the Kaikoura coast in order to allow him the chance to take his photo or the trucks photo. Truck spotters are an enthusiastic group of people who simply love trucks. To be fair there are a lot of "train spotters" who work within Hall's and the Silver Bullet is pleased that they do

As for the Kenworth, Craig's comment was it is a very good truck and a pleasure to drive.

HEALTH AND WELLBEING

As part of a Health and Wellness program, Hall's have secured corporate deals from both Snap fitness and Jetts fitness. These are gyms that operate throughout New Zealand and are 24/7. The deal waives the normal joining fee and below is the specific details each gym offers.

Hall's Biggest Transformation Challenge

As part of Hall's new Health and Wellness Initiative, we will be running a "Biggest Transformation Challenge" for all Staff members who wish to participate.

First each site must choose a representative who will report weight results each week to Jacqueline Busca at Head Office (weight will be confidential we will only publish weight percentages not the actual weight)

There will be a final prize for the biggest transformation.

We are looking to start the challenge on the 11th August and will run for approximately 4 months until the 15th December.

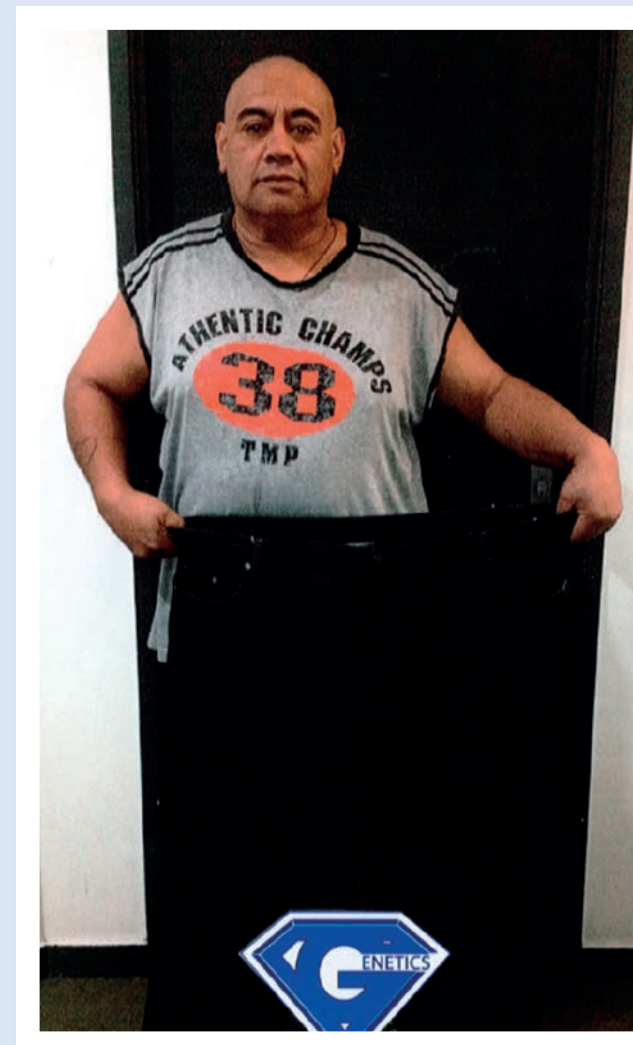

Look out for an email which will outline the finer details of the challenge.

Below is a good news 'transformation' story that Maurice Rogers from Auckland was willing to share – it may assist in getting you motivated ...

Maurice Rogers

Hall's Workshop

June 2014

It took Maurice 13 months to shed 82kg and has done so through healthy eating, determination and going to the gym....."definitely without any surgical assistance". Maurice says he did it through doing the hard yards the "old fashion way" with rigorous exercise and a strict dietary plan.

Initially Maurice was committed only to being able to walk freely again but his body's immediate response to its healthy changes saw him losing weight quickly and went way beyond his expectations.

This lifestyle change for Maurice is not for the short term. His commitment today is still holding strong with a visit to the gym every morning before work and an all-round appreciation for healthy balanced eating. Having compulsory group gym sessions 3 times a week and a regulated dietary plan was the start of Maurice establishing these healthy habits. Maurice brings his success down to goal-setting and the support he receives from his fellow gym users; comradeship is playing a great part in his motivation.

Well done Maurice.

We look forward to be able to have a regular spot in the Silver Bullet with similar stories.

HEALTH AND SAFETY

The Hall's Road to Zero is having a refresh and a renewed focus across the Hall's Group. The message illustrates our path to Zero Harm. Every depot proudly now displays the Road to Zero message to constantly remind us that Safety is a journey that never ceases.

We are taking the opportunity to reinforce safety and keep the message at the forefront with our posters, hanging vehicle deodorisers and even stress balls. Each depot has a safety and/or quality message at the gate that all drivers see as they exit their local depot. Hall's Logistics have developed large banner's which are displayed at the end of racking with safety messages using their own people.

Safety audits are now taking place at each depot and the scores will be shared. Hall's has recently distributed a Safety survey to all staff and we encourage everyone to complete this and send in. The results of the survey will be distributed.

Another project in the Our Road to Zero campaign is to update and modernize procedures and working instruction for a range of tasks across Hall's. This process has been heavily dependent on the forefront staff in contributing information.

Their participation in identifying key hazards in their respective fields has not only encouraged them to develop a more conscientious outlook on their daily tasks but their knowledge has been very valuable in producing SOP's and JSA's.

The Hall's induction video is currently being re-filmed to ensure all relevant and up-to-date information is being covered as part of our extensive induction program. New technology has enhanced the filming completed so far and the result is crisp and professional. Manual handling, an area that requires on-going attention will also be included and this will be used for an on-going training tool as well and induction.
